St. John Ambulance's Therapy Dogs will be at the University of Saskatchewan next week helping students through the stress of finals.

Sociologist Colleen Dell says her therapy dogs will be going including Anna-Belle whom we met last year on CJWW's Let's Talk Saskatchewan.

Dell says the dogs will be on campus Wednesday next week for individual appointments followed by the general drop by sessions Thursday and Friday which will also include free massages for anyone who comes.

Dell says this is one of the first times the therapy dogs have been asked to help students. In the past they have typically visited prisons, hospitals, seniors' homes and addiction centres.
